

Western Faculty and Staff Highlight Service Learning across the State

Over the last month, Western Oklahoma State College faculty and staff have traveled the state to speak to others about service learning projects happening right here on campus.

On Friday, November 9, Deena Morley, chemistry instructor, and Lisa Chaney, Community Engagement, Service and Service Learning committee chair and biology instructor, traveled to Stillwater to speak to a group at the Service Learning Conference. They highlighted their work on the STEM Saturday project.

Service learning projects provide unique opportunities for students to learn in an environment other than the classroom, and also meet a need in their community.

Western Oklahoma State College is the oldest original municipal two-year college still in existence in the state of Oklahoma. Its mission is to provide high quality education, support student success, and empower individuals to become productive members of local, regional and global communities.

Western offers high-quality associate degrees and certificates to its five-county service area and beyond.

Western's CESSL Committee Raises Funds for Amethyst House

Lisa Chaney, CESSL committee chair and Western biology instructor, center, presented a check in the amount of $342 to Staci Kirby, Amethyst House director, second from left.

The Western Oklahoma State College Community Engagement, Service and Service Learning Committee hosted a bake sale on campus on Thursday, November 15 and Friday, November 16.

The bake sale served as a fundraiser to benefit the Amethyst House.

The Amethyst House opened in August 2018 and is a faith-based, sober living home for women in Altus. Their mission is to empower women to change their lives by seeking to put God's love into action and giving them a new hope.

The CESSL bake sale raised over $340 for the Amethyst House.
